- 25X1A 2. [] Comment. Probably, troop shipments.
- 25X1A 3. [] Comment. Ten of the 14 railroad stations mentioned were reported in the preceding month. Comparison showed that shipments of construction material to Vogelsang airfield heavily decreased while fuel shipments to air force units from the Schwarzhilde-Rubland hydrogenation increased. Material shipments and possible troop shipments making up a total of 733 carloads omitted, there remain 354 carloads for military supply traffic in July. Supply traffic thus was 25 percent below the monthly average of 486 carloads for the first half year of 1953. See [] A decrease in military supply in July was also discernable in the railroad districts of Erfurt and Dresden. [] and [] Only the Berlin railroad district had about the same volume of supply traffic in July as during the preceding months. []
